A most impressive Italian 18th century Louis XV period giltwood and Rouge Languedoc marble freestanding console from Naples. The console is raised by four elegant cabriole legs with lovely scrolled feet and a mottled fillet that leads up to finely carved foliate corner cabochons. The arbalest shaped frieze is centered by a beautiful pierced central seashell reserve flanked by decorative reeded patterns and beautiful foliate movements set on a fine satin burnished hammered background. Above is the original Rouge Languedoc marble top with a mottled border and curved edges. Original gilt throughout.
