A sensational and very high quality Italian 18th century Louis XVI period trumeau mirror, circa 1775. The mirror retains its original mirror plate framed within an elegant pleated mauve fabric and a lovely mottled wrap around foliate giltwood border. The patinated frame displays a fine faux painted marble band at the base and exquisite columns leading up each side with beautiful maidens holding urns, charming cameos, intricately carved scrolled foliate designs with a lyre, a bell and caduceus all framed within a delicate wrap around twisted ribbon and below scrolled palmette capitals. Above is the original fitted arched shaped painting of a roman in his chariot pulled by two horses amidst clouds also framed within a fine foliate band. All original gilt and patina throughout.
