A most elegant and attractive Italian 18th century Neo-Classical st. patinated off-white, Giltwood, and white Carrara marble console. This beautiful demi-lune shaped freestanding console is raised by four slender, tapered, lightly curved patinated off-white legs with Giltwood designed edges. At the top of each leg are carved Giltwood laurel vines leading downward. The three straight aprons are tastefully decorated by a band of fine acanthus leaf carvings. Flanking each of the three pierced panels are smaller scaled panels of Giltwood rosette carvings above each leg. Each panel has a pierced design of arching Giltwood bands with the open spaces occupied by vertical foliate branches on a patinated off-white background. Above each panel and below the mottled edge white Carrara marble top is a mottled band of Giltwood and patinated off-white.
