An attractive and most unique Italian 19th century Louis XV st. giltwood and marble console planter. The console is raised by elegant cabriole legs with acanthus leaf carvings at the feet and connected by a scrolled stretcher centered by a reeded urn. The scalloped shaped frieze is centered by carved seashell reserve and flanked by beautiful lattice patterns in a fine satin and burnished finish. Above each leg are richly carved cabochon reserves. All below the original white Carrara marble top, which lifts to displays the metal fitted planter. All original gilt throughout.
