A most impressive and large scaled Italian 19th century Rococo Revival st. Ebonized Fruitwood and giltwood cabinet/vitrine. The four door cabinet is raised by a mottled plinth below the two central doors showcasing mottled square panels with concave corners and decorated with central scrolled foliate giltwood reserves. The two outer doors have similar mottled scrolled panels below the fitted glass panes with the doors flanked at the top and bottom by carved giltwood foliate reserves amidst gilt rosettes. The two outer single door compartments have four shelves each while the central compartment has three shelves and with all shelves are adjustable. The elaborate and richly carved top crown has an elegant gilt reserve of a female face with her hair in braids and centered by two large scrolled acanthus leaves all below a superb foliate reserve and tied bow.
