A beautiful and extremely high quality Italian 19th century white Carrara marble statue of Leda and the swan. The statue is raised by a square base with a superb ground like design with a most decorative rock formation leading up the back with charming blooming flowers and lovely foliate designs. The statue depicts the beautiful Leda with her hair tied in a headband and draped in a wonderfully executed flowing garment. She is holding the richly sculpted swan in her arms as they intently look in to one another's eyes with exceptional attention to detail. Leda and the Swan is a story from Greek mythology in which the god Zeus takes the form of a swan to seduce Leda.
