A most impressive Italian early 19th century Louis XVI st. Genovese patinated, faux painted marble, giltwood and marble console. The wall mounted console is raised by handsome square tapered legs with cut corners, a finely executed faux painted marble base below a giltwood band and elegant giltwood flutes on a patinated background. The striking frieze displays exceptionally carved scrolled, foliate and rosette patterns with finely detailed floral designs. All below the original thick Verde Antico marble within a Sienna marble border top. All original patina and gilt throughout.
