A handsome Italian mid 18th century Baroque period Rosewood and Ormolu cabinet. The two door commode is raised on carved 'S' scrolled legs below the straight frieze. The two doors have wonderful inlaid designs of elongated rectangles and display the original Ormolu keyhole escutcheon. The two sans traverse doors (without a crossbar) open to reveal one interior shelf and all of its original hardware. The two sides have a central veneered panel bordered by a rectangular band. The elegant bombe front top has two inlaid bordered panels with a mottled edge on three sides.
