An extremely handsome and impressive French 19th century Empire st. mahogany and ormolu executive desk. At the frieze is a central wider drawer flanked by smaller drawers at each side. On the left side is a faux façade of drawers that opens to reveal an interior shelf. On the right are three actual drawers with the top one having a secret compartment at the back. The stunning back has four Verte de Patricia marble columns with finely chased ormolu capitols and bases. The back is centered by a large ormolu mount of a chariot with horses driven by a cherub and wonderful flames of prosperity at each side panel. At the top is a fitted gold tooled leather with pull outs at the side. Finely chased and extremely intricate ormolu mounts decorate the desk throughout.
