A spectacular and extremely elegant French 18th century Louis XV period giltwood side table. The table is raised by slender cabriole legs with beautiful acanthus leaves and intricate foliate carvings throughout. The magnificent raised carvings extend along the scalloped shaped frieze, which displays one central drawer, and along the sides and back. The most impressive top also displays additional richly carved and wonderfully executed scrolled foliate movements, floral accents and charming lattice patterns all framed within a mottled border. All original gilt and remarkable patina throughout.
