A stunning and important Italian early 18th century Baroque giltwood console. The free standing console is raised on four legs with impressive paw feet below exquisite large richly carved scrolling acanthus leaves. The front supports are joined to the back with carved acanthus leaf stretchers and a very impressive carved foliate large stretcher joins the two back supports. At the center of the spectacular frieze is a theatrical mask flanked by two cherubs amidst flowing acanthus leaves, above two impressive swaging floral garlands. All below the fitted original veneered marble top with an extremely decorative solid porphyry border and moulded giltwood gallery. All original gilt with superb proportions.
