A very decorative Venetian early 19th century two drawer Japanese lacquered commode with marble top. The commode is raised by slender 'S' cabriole legs ending with a ball and claw. The legs have a top crest shaped design with a raised motif of a basket with flowers. Above is the serpentine shaped frieze with an arabesque shaped front and two drawers sans traverse.

The front and side have wonderfully executed red lacquered panels with Asian figures within a landscape. These panels are surrounded by a very elegant gold lattice design over a dark brown background. Above each leg are additional elongated red lacquered panels with richly decorated floral bouquets. Above is a red lacquered mottled trim supporting the Red Lavanto marble top.
